

Ordinary Life

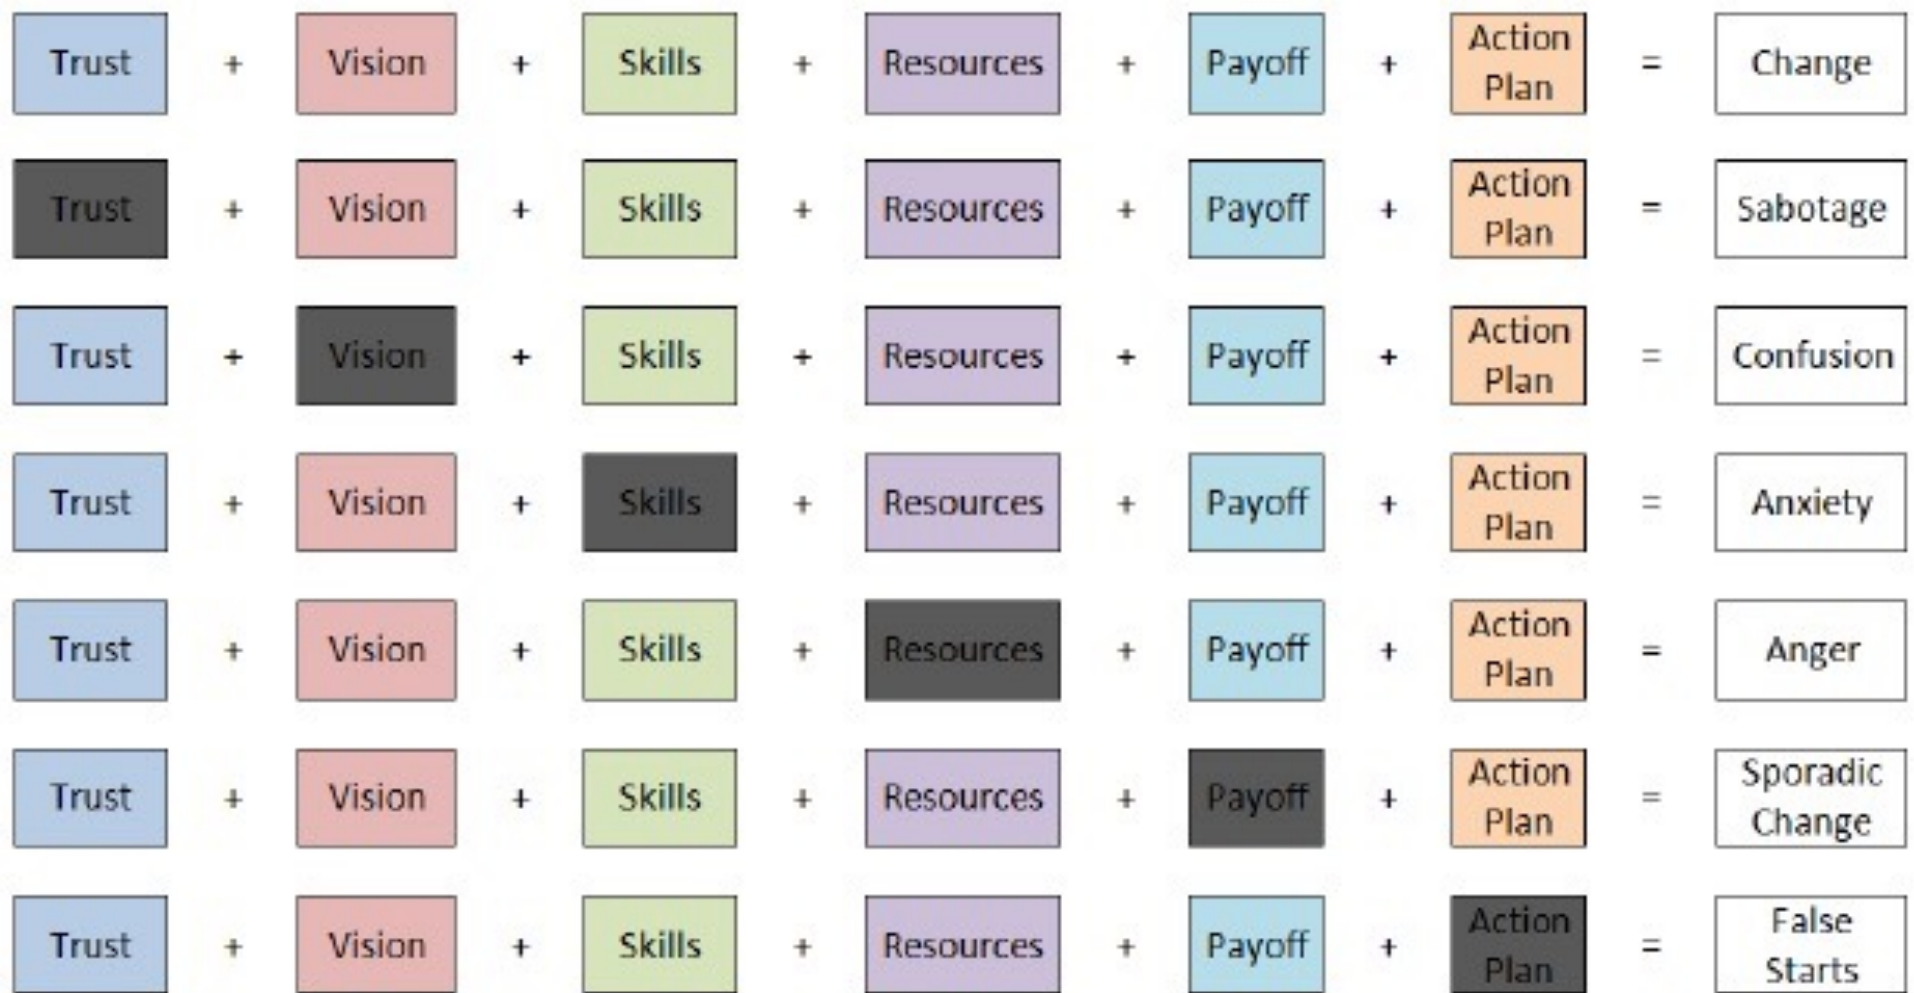

When you see
your own projection
into time and space
it makes you happy.

But when the time comes
that you are able to look upon the icon of your own being,
which came into existence
at the beginning,
and neither dies
nor has yet been fully revealed,
Ordinary Life will you be able to stand it?

SLIPPERY TIMES

Ordinary Life

AMUSING OURSELVES TO DEATH

PUBLIC DISCOURSE IN THE AGE OF SHOW BUSINESS

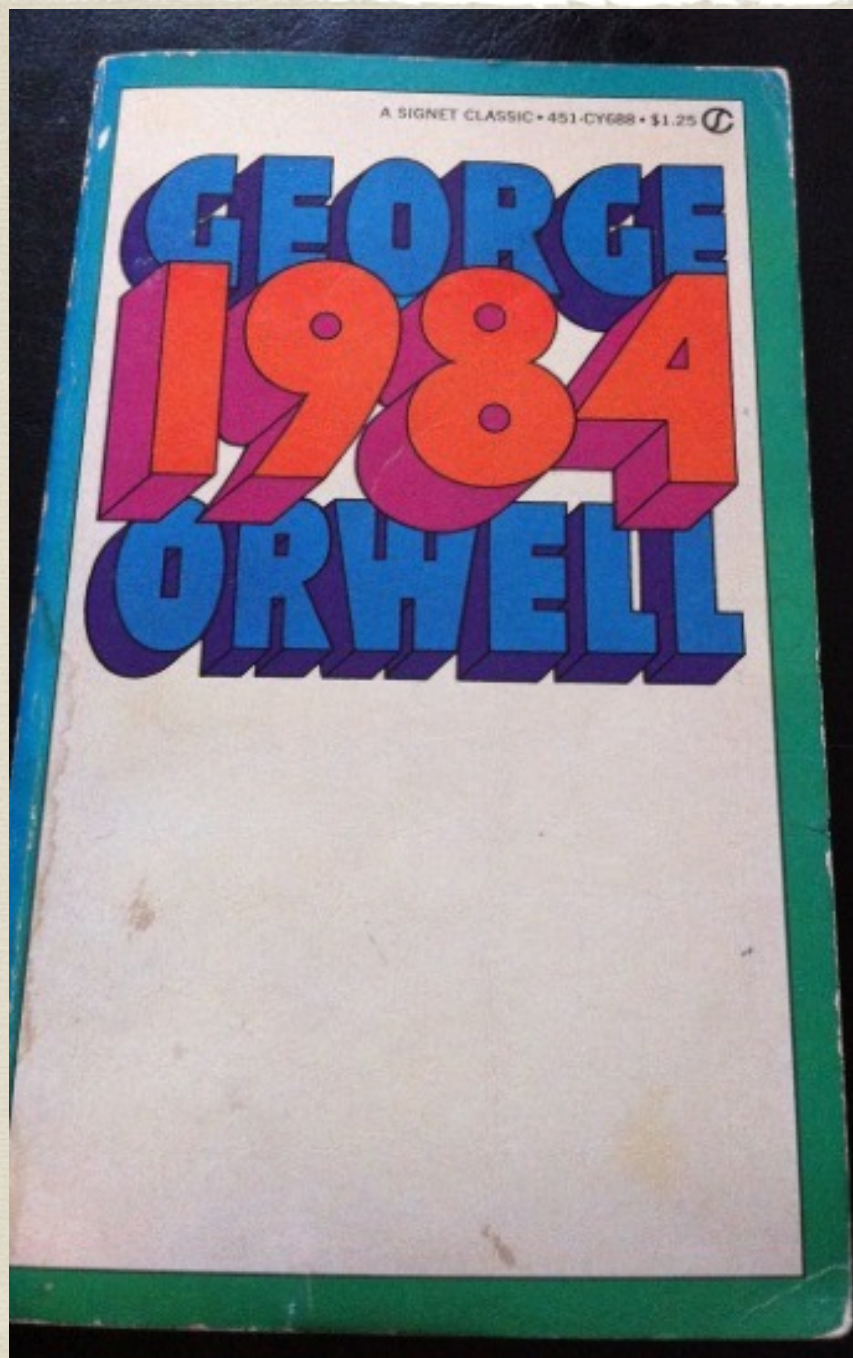

NEIL POSTMAN

New Introduction by Andrew Postman

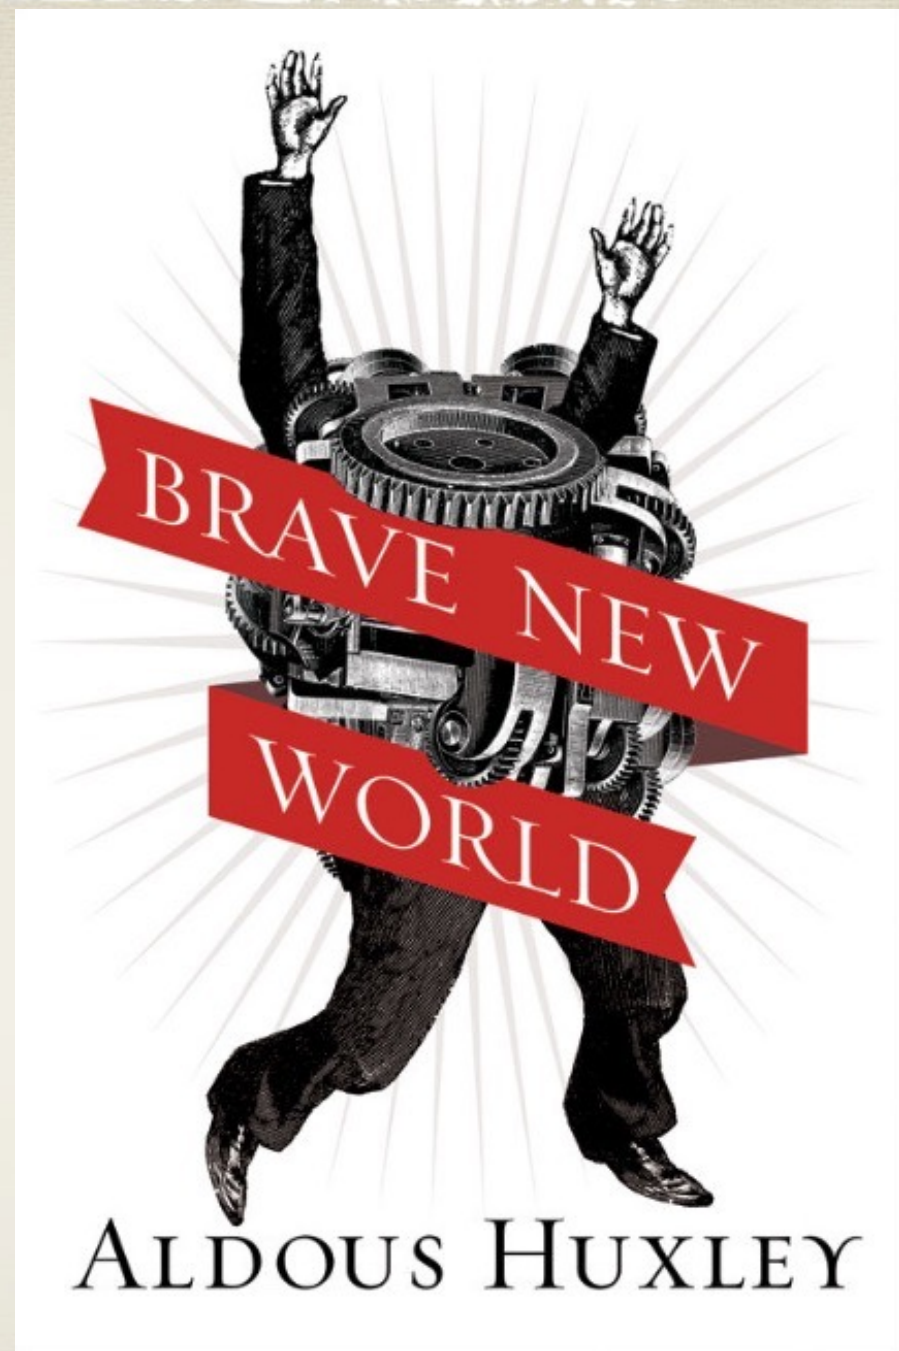

Ordinary Life

“Give to us, O Lord, a right discernment between that which comes first in our faith and that which follows after. And when we would make much of that which cannot matter much to thee, recall us to the heart of our Christian profession, Jesus our Lord. Amen.”

Ordinary Life

Ordinary Life

Orwell feared that what we hate will ruin us.

Huxley feared that what we love will run us.

Ordinary Life

“be in the world but not of it”

Ordinary Life

“GAINING TRACTION
IN SLIPPERY TIMES.”

Ordinary Life

Two of things that trouble us -

To live on the surface, to be isolated from each other and to forget who we are.

To live in confusion about the Truth.

Ordinary Life

God is an intelligible space whose center is everywhere and whose circumference is nowhere.

Emptiness is form and form is emptiness.

Christ has died. Christ is risen. Christ will come again.

When you see
your own projection
into time and space
it makes you happy.

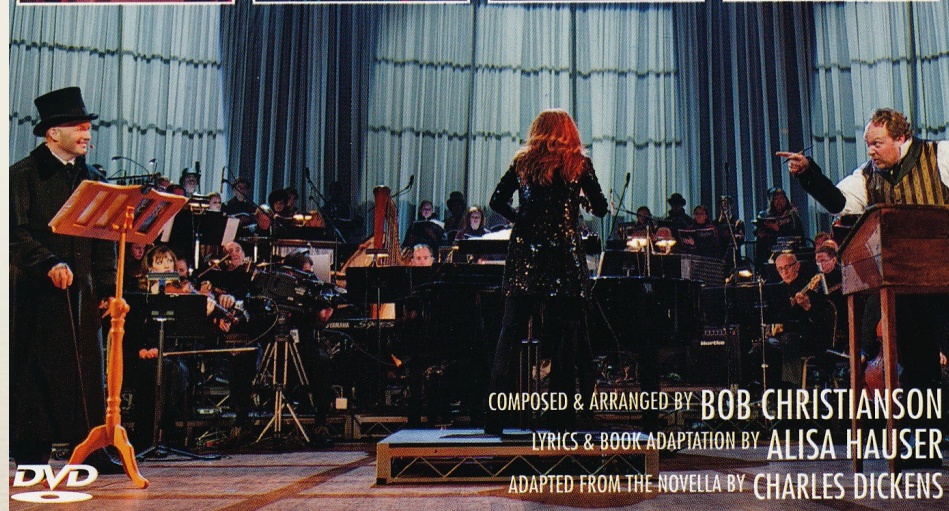

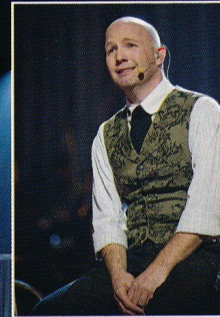

But when the time comes
that you are able to look
upon the icon of your own being,
which came into existence
at the beginning,
and neither dies
nor has yet been fully revealed,
Ordinary Life will you be able to stand it?

God without us will not.

We without God
cannot.
