

Ordinary Life

God has chosen to make it impossible for God to be God without you.

Failing to embrace this truth -

robs us of true courage,
fearlessness, joy and love;
is putting our world at risk.

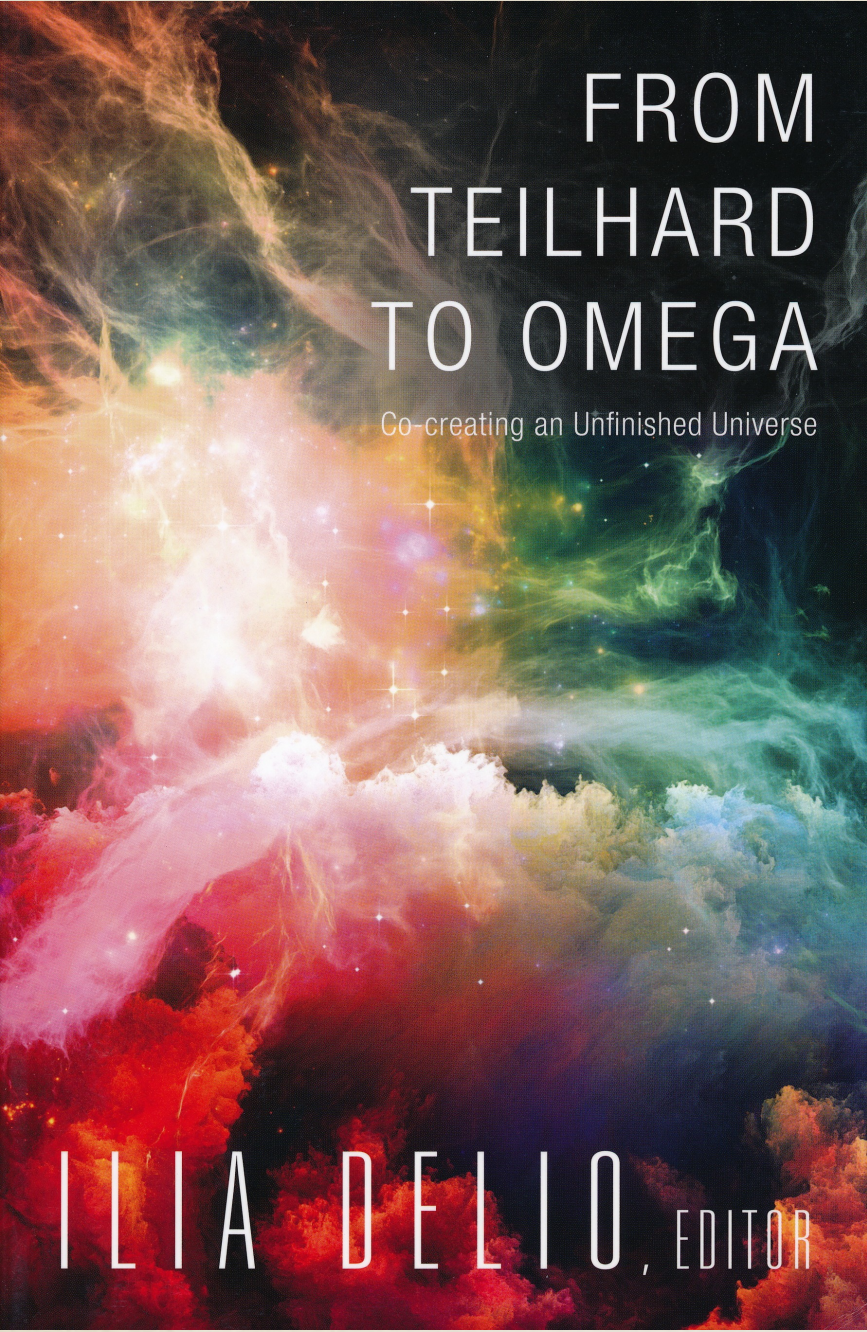

Pierre Teilhard de Chardin - 1881 - 1955

Ordinary Life

We are not human beings
having a spiritual experience.

We are spiritual beings
having a human experience.

God is love.

Love is that which desires to reunite the separated.

Repetition is not redundant.

We never master this material.

Rather, we allow it to master us.

Ordinary Life

The central truth of and for spiritual practice is “paying attention” and developing the resources to be present to “what is.”

Central to this spiritual practice is growing in the capacity to be nonjudgmental.

“What is” is what remains
when you stop believing in it
that doesn't go away.

Ordinary Life

People who were very committed to the scriptures, were quoting Scripture in such a way as to actually be working against the purposes of God in this world.

If flesh came into existence
for the sake of spirit,
it is a wonder,
but if spirit exists for the sake of flesh,
it is a wonder of wonders.
I am truly astonished
at how such richness
came to dwell in such poverty.

God is everywhere.

There is no “why?”
